Lesotho 1970 An African Coup Khaketla gave a history of the country from shortly before independence in 1966 to paint a picture of the political situation that led to the coup. A forensic account of the coup by a member of one of the victimized political parties could have been written with spite and histrionics. I did not find that attitude in Lesotho 1970. Lesotho, 1970: An African coup under the microscope, : B ... A self-coup took place in Lesotho on 30 January 1970, led by Prime Minister Leabua Jonathan. It led to the assumption of dictatorial powers by Prime Minister Jonathan, who held the office since 1965.
